

Those people

Blessed were those that found work their true love
Those who spent their years courting careers
My life has been spent in but a hectic frenzy torn between love and work, work and love
Work before love, love between work
Knarled together, knots for me to untie
Until one day at last I tired of both,
And walked away to leave them hanging

Translated by Kavita Khanna